NATIONAL LEAGUE CLUBS TO PLAY HERE

Washington Team May Take on the Pirates for Spring Practice Games.

The present program for the Nationals is to take the boat for Norfolk the 1st of March, continue there a month and then return to Washington for about tifteen days previous to the opening of the American League season for 1910. In seasons past the first glimpse the local fans have had of the Nationals has been on the opening day. If everything goes well next spring the Nationals will play many interesting games between the 1st and the 15th of April on the local diamond, having as opponents several of the National League clubs, and perhaps one or two members of the Eastern

The enthusiastic admirers of the Nationals have been writing to President Noves and the sporting writers of the city, urging that such games be arranged, and the officials of the club will more than likely fill out a schedule covering all the available days in April.

The Phillies, the Brooklyns, the Bostons and Glants are almost sure attractions, while there is a possibility of the Pittsburg champions coming here for at least one game before returning home from their training grounds. In addition to seeing the Nationals have good tryouts, the novelty of witnessing the play of the opposition league clubs will assuredly draw out big crowds. There is nothing sure about the Pirates coming, but President Dreyfuss is very friendly toward the Washington club, and if the arrangements can be made Fred Clarke and his bunch of stars will be here. It is a little early for the National League teams to arrange for spring games, but the chances are that Manager McAleer and President Noyes may make complete arrangements at the meetings of the two organizations in New York next week. notably the Baltimores, Newarks and Jersey Citys, will take their spring practice in the Virginia League cities, and dates with them can be easily arranged on their way north. Aleer has figured that should the weather in March turn out bad the fifteen days' play with strong National and Eastern League clubs will give the Nationals about all the spring practice they need.

It is almost the universal opinion that the shrewd Connie Mack has once more put over a good one when he secured Outflelder Goode for Infielder Nicholls. Manager McGuire of the Clevelands acknowledges that he needs infielders, but why let out such a star as Goode? Last year Goode looked about as good to the Clevelands as Chris Speaker did to the Bostons the past season. He fell off somewhat in hitting, but he certainly had everything else that goes to make up a first-class player. The lucky Mr. Mack has needed a first-class outfielder for the past two years and Goode will fit in very Simon Nicholls is a good player, but erratio, his chief fault being a tendency to fall down on easy chances. His light work in doing substitute duty for the Athletics may do him a great deal of good, and it is hoped he will come back into the form he first displayed when he joined the Quakers.

A better trade, whereby both clubs would have been benefited, would have been Goode for Elberfeld. Norman may have been persuaded to go that far west and as an infielder there is none better in the business. He would have filled up the gap created by Turner's backward slide, and perhaps the little Tobasco Kid can't hit! The Athletics were plenty strong enough without Goode, but New York could have used him to advantage, as could the Clevelands Elberfeld.

Unless all signs fail, there will be large doings when the big leagues come to-York on the 15th instant. At present it looks as though the Nationals were deadlocked over the presidency, although it is doubtful if Murphy and the magnates associated with him for the purpose of tossing John Heydler will endeavor to force Ward into the chair, which would be a direct affront to President Johnson. Then there's the new magnate, Horace Fogel. He's bound to spring something calculated to add to the gayety of the nation, if it's only the announcement of the names of the gentlemen who are behind the financial guns of the Phillies. There's bound to be doings-large doings. And that's what the industrious members of the Fourth Estate want to justify their annual trip to old New York town.

In the audience could be counted every ball player who calls Washington his home.

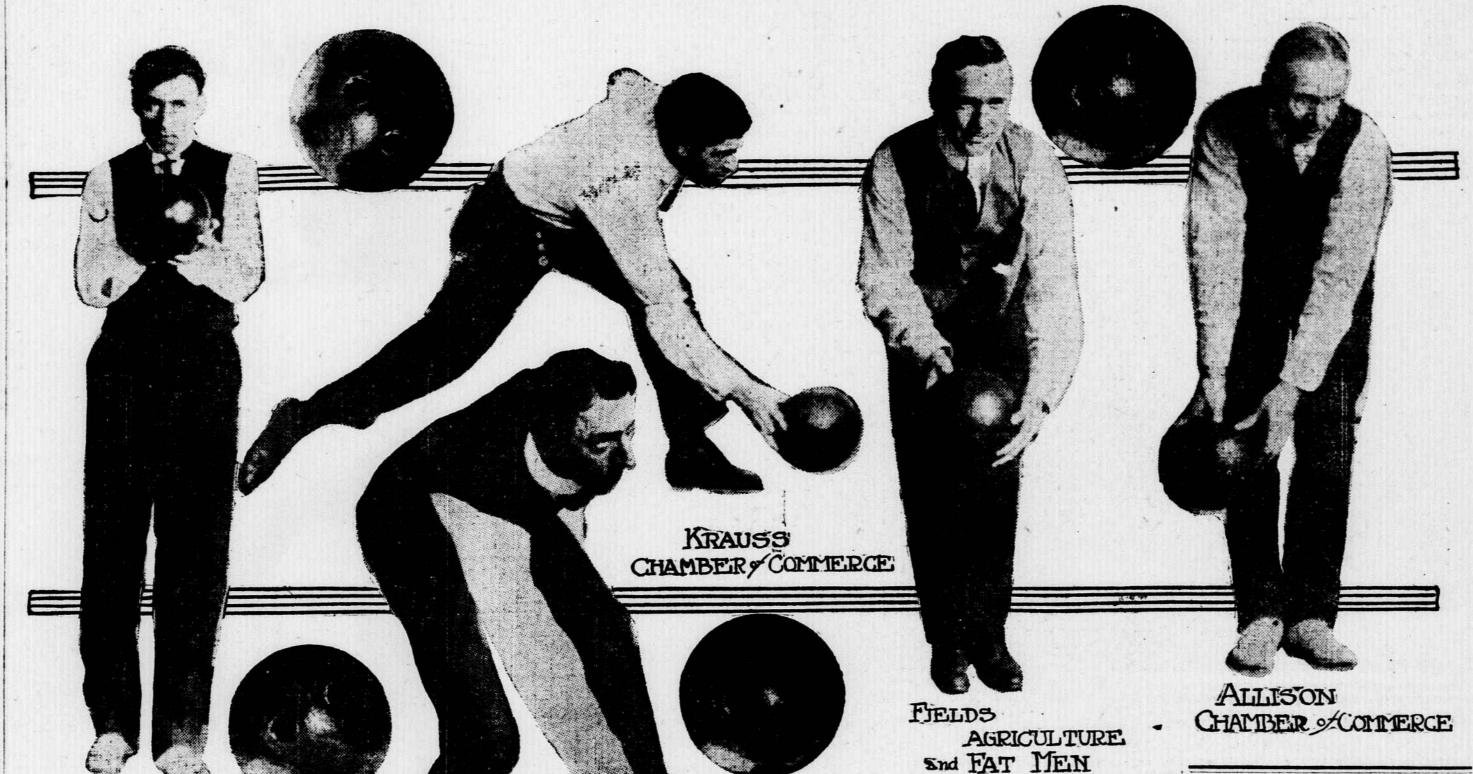

Manager McAleer will come east just previous to the American League meeting in New York and with President good tackler, and handles the forward Noves join the gathering in Gotham. There is little chance of any trades being pulled off, but there is a possibility of Norman Elberfeld being purchased from was the life of the George Washington was the life of the Geo play here in Washington on account of team, and did more than any other two his home being at Kensington, and Manager Stallings has about concluded to let Tall and powerful, he is particularly efthe little "tobasco kid" out, but wants to feetive in smashing line attacks. The running track of the gymnasium was lined with spectators, all of whom seemed to take great delight out of the scrappy playing of the rival goal-tossers. The students of both the prep school and University of Georgtown cheered lustily to the end for the embryo collegians, but it was all in vain. During the first four minutes of play neither side scored. Then Furmage of the Northminsters hooked a two-pointer, which was immediately offset by Helskell's pretty goal from a bunch. Two minutes later the same pair repeated, with the result that the points were again even. In the next five minutes French made a goal from a difficult angle, Furmage shot a single-pointer on Waldron's foul and Plumber added another ringer from the field, all of which put the church team five points in the Trumbull made a goal from team work, which cut this advantage down to three, but with only five minutes left to play French bagged another twopointer and regained the handicap.
